

ABSTRACT:

A gain selector for use in a signal processor, particularly a peak limiter, comprising an audio input to receive a signal indicative of an audio signal, and a system gain processor to determine a system gain to be applied to the audio signal, such that the system gain is determined using a predetermined volume gain as well as the signal indicative of the audio signal.